

Streets Seminar Series

'In a process where either too much or too little is asked of the street, much of what the street does or brings to life remains barely visible' (Simone 2010: 228).

This series of events is designed to bring together people from all human research clusters, to investigate the theme of 'streets' broadly conceived, while experimenting with the format and style of department seminars.

Street politics - 12th October

How is the political performed on the street?

A screening of an episode from the hit TV show, The Wire, will be followed by reflections from:

Mario Berti, Joe Painter and Lynn Staeheli

Street circulations - 16th November

'To be political in 2011, means to take (to) the street'.

A series of speakers will reflect on, argue for, refute, or refuse this proposition before the floor is opened for questions, contributions and discussion.

Louise Amooore (TBC), Andrew Burridge, Rob Shaw, Hosna Shewly and Helen Wilson

Street economies - 7th December

An author meets interlocutors session, to discuss the work of new staff member, Paul Langley.

Ben Anderson, Chris Harker, Paul Langley and Micaela Mazzei

Street bodies and materials - 18th January

A workshop involving all manner of materials, which panelists, including Stephen Legg, University of Nottingham will use to discuss their research.

Rachel Colls, Stephen Legg, Marcus Power and Jayne Sellick

Location: Room W010

For more information contact: christopher.harker@durham.ac.uk