

The University of Nottingham

School of Geography Research Seminar Series 2009-10

24 September 2009 Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Professor Charles Watkins, School of Geography, University of Nottingham 'Nature too wild'? Uvedale Price (1747-1829) and writing the Picturesque
01 October 2009 Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Professor Brian Moss, School of Biological Sciences, University of Liverpool Climate change, nutrient pollution and the bargain of Dr Faustus
12 November 2009 Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Dr Emily Brady, School of Geosciences, University of Edinburgh Revitalising the Natural Sublime
10 December 2009 Change of date! Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Professor David Hodell, Cambridge Environmental Initiatives, University of Cambridge Heinrich Events: Still more to learn after 20 years
28 January 2010 Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Professor Neil Smith, City University of New York and the University of Aberdeen The Geographies of Toxic Capitalism
04 February 2010 Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Professor Michael J. Blakemore, Department of Geography, Durham University GIS - Geographically Intrusive Systems - Foresight or Fantasy? (An historical tour of privacy and paranoia)
04 March 2010 Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Professor Chris Philo, Department of Geographical and Earth Sciences, University of Glasgow "Cats robbed him of his wealth, his health and his reason": Louis Wain and the entangled geographies of animals and madness
25 March 2010 Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Professor Susan Smith, University of Cambridge From hidden hands to animal spirits: how housing markets really work
13 May 2010 Lecture Theatre A40 Clive Granger building	Professor David Currie, Department of Biology, University of Ottawa If Newton had been an ecologist: predicting the distribution of life on Earth

Seminars take place on Thursday afternoons at 17.00 the School of Geography, University Park, Nottingham. Each seminar is followed by a drinks reception in the University Club. All interested parties are welcome to attend. Contact: Stephen.Legg@nottingham.ac.uk