Location
Located in Zhejiang Province on the eastern coast of China, about 200km south of Shanghai, Ningbo is a modern city with around 7 million inhabitants. Ningbo (meaning literally 'tranquil waves') is a port city with a rich cultural heritage, and one of the greenest and least polluted cities in China.

Ningbo Lishe International Airport, 30 minutes drive from campus, connects Ningbo by air to the rest of China, with regularly scheduled flights.

Travel opportunities
China is a huge country with diverse geography, climate, cultures and traditions. There are a number of places worth visiting close to Ningbo. Shanghai is 30 minutes by plane or a 2 hour bus journey via the 36km Hangzhou Bay Bridge. Shanghai is a must-see: the largest city in China is a multicultural metropolis with an amazing mix of ancient and hi-tech Western civilisation.

China's capital city Beijing is only a two hour flight from Ningbo. Beijing has many places of historic interest and architectural beauty including the Forbidden City, the Temple of Heaven and the world renowned Great Wall. In addition you can visit the super-modern Olympic Village, with the Bird's Nest Stadium and Water Cube.

Hangzhou, capital of Zhejiang Province, is one of the more modern and prosperous cities in China. It sits at the southern end of the Grand Canal and is one of China's seven ancient national capitals. Suzhou, renowned for its beautiful gardens and traditional waterside architecture, is also a very popular destination among domestic and international tourists alike.

Venture out to the stunningly idyllic Mount Huangshan for a hike of a lifetime atop the 36 separate granite peaks, many rising above 1,800m (not for the faint-hearted)! Frequently shrouded in mist, the many peaks appear to float on clouds, and the scenery is typical to that of Chinese paintings.

Other areas worth visiting within China include Guangzhou, Xian, Nanjing, Tibet, Xinjiang, and Inner Mongolia. Further afield, you can travel to Hong Kong by flight from Ningbo in 2.5 hours, Seoul in 7 hours, and Tokyo in 8 hours with transit.

Climate
Ningbo is subject to a sub-tropical monsoon climate, with four clear seasons. The summer is warm and wet, with temperatures up to 28°C. Rainfall is highest during the monsoon season June-

September. In winter temperatures drop to an average of 4°C. In September, typhoons are frequent.
