Waseda University's main campus is located in the Nishi-Waseda district of Shinjuku, Tokyo.

Exchange students from Nottingham normally study in the School for International Liberal Studies (SILS) where classes are taught in English. The majority of SILS courses deal with topics in Asian culture, history, society, politics, economy, geography, arts and literature. Waseda also provides the opportunity for students to learn Japanese at regular language classes which run from elementary level. However other academic disciplines are increasingly teaching in English.

Waseda University recommend that you prepare at least 1,000,000 JPY (£8200) for one year of academic study to cover all living costs. Deflation and market pressures have helped to make costs in Tokyo comparable to most other large cities around the world.

Accommodation
- Most students are allocated a room in one of the dormitories for international students located near campus. Students apply for housing once they have been accepted to study at Waseda and allocations will be made on arrival.
- Some students choose to live in apartments, which must be arranged independently. Students who wish to live in private accommodation should be very aware of accommodation costs.
