

Brampton Brewery

Chris Radford of Brampton Brewery, Chesterfield, is one of a number of Regional craft brewers who has taken advantage of brewery tuning, wort and beer production workshops and has had access to information on the Regional Brewers Network website.

After a brewery tuning session, Chris realised that he could make more from his raw materials after tests showed that extract rates from pre-milled malt were lower than they could be. After working with us he was able to show that the purchasing his own mill would dramatically improve extract rates and result in additional profit from 2 extra firkins of beer for every brew. The payback time of the mill was less than a year and the quality of grist has improved because of the lower oxidation experienced from using fresh malt.
