

Effective Macro-Prudential Instruments Conference

University of Nottingham, UK

November 13-14, 2014

CALL FOR PAPERS

The University of Nottingham Centre for Finance, Credit and Macroeconomics (CFCM) and the Money, Macro and Finance Research Group (MMF) are jointly organizing a two-day conference to consider recent academic work on the role of macro-prudential instruments in stabilising the economic and finance cycle. The conference will take place on November 13-14, at the University of Nottingham. Ten to twelve papers will be selected among those submitted in response to this call for papers.

Keynote Speakers: Dr Philip Turner, Bank for International Settlements, Dr Philipp Hartmann from the European Central Bank, and a speaker from the Bank of England (TBC).

Versions of papers presented at the conference will be published in a Cambridge University Press Edited Volume in the Macroeconomic Policy Making series <http://www.cambridge.org/gb/academic/subjects/economics/series/macroeconomic-policy-making>

Topics of special interest, although not confined to the ones below, are:

- The links between macroprudential regulation and the costs of capital;
- The role of macroprudential instruments in dealing with financial distress;
- The Ramsey Policy Problem and macroprudential instruments;
- The role of capital ratios versus liquidity caps and provisioning rules;
- The interactions between monetary policy and macroprudential instruments.

We will cover accommodation in the Orchard Hotel, on Nottingham University campus <http://www.deverevenues.co.uk/en/venues/east-midlands-conference-centre-orchard-hotel/orchard-hotel/> and reasonable travel expenses for speakers.

This conference has financial support from the Royal Economic Society (RES), the Money, Macro Finance (MMF) Group and the School of Economics, University of Nottingham.

Submission guidelines: Complete manuscripts should be sent in PDF format to suzanne.robey@nottingham.ac.uk and must be received by September 30, 2014. The authors of the accepted papers will be notified by October 15.
