

Technology, Ecology, and Ideology

Nottingham Ideologies Conference
Held by the Centre for Research into Ideas and the Study of Political Ideologies (CRISPI) and the Journal of Political Ideologies
Monica Partridge Building C14

26 June 2024

8:30-9AM – Coffee

9-9:15AM – Welcome

Hugo Drochon (Co-director of CRISPI)

Marius Ostrowski (Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Political Ideologies)

9:15AM-11AM – Panel 1: The Anthropocene

Blake Ewing (Nottingham) – ‘Conservation Politics in the Anthropocene’

Mathias Thaler (Edinburgh) – ‘Interregnum or Transition? Two Ways of Thinking about the Current Conjuncture’

Julia Nordblad (Uppsala) – ‘Genetic Diversity Expertise and the Emergence of Planetary Temporalities, 1967–1980’

11AM-12:45PM – Panel 2: Technology

Sean Fleming (Nottingham) – ‘The Unabomber and Environmentalism’

Mauro Lubrano (Bath) – ‘Stop the Machines: The Anti-Technology Fight to End Civilization’

Caroline Ashcroft (Oxford) – ‘Technology as “Second Nature” and the Concept of Environment’

12:45PM-2PM – Lunch

2-3:45PM – Panel 3: The Far Right

Anna Meier (Nottingham) – ‘Epistemic Violence and the “Terrorist” Classifier’

Beatriz Lopes-Buarque (LSE) – ‘Staging a Dialogue between Autonomist Marxists and Post-Marxists: The Case of the Alt-Right Multitude’

Katy Brown (Maynooth) – ‘From Ed Sheeran to Keir Starmer: How Perceptions of the “Mainstream” Play a Part in the Mainstreaming of the Far Right’

3:45-4PM – Break

4-5:45PM – Panel 4: Democracy and Technocracy

Hugo Drochon (Nottingham) – ‘Exhaust Fumes: Conspiracy Theories, Technology and Democracy’

Andrew McKenzie-McHarg (ACU Rome) – ‘Technocracy and Conspiracy Theory’

Alfred Moore (York) – ‘Democracy, Technocracy, and Governing for the Future’

5:45-6PM – Closing discussion