Nottingham 10k

Well done to all runners who took part in the Nottingham 10k, which returned to University Park on Sunday 22 May. Members of NBCRC including Dr Cinzia Allegrucci and Prof Stewart Martin were on hand near the finish line to congratulate and thank all the runners and let them know that £5 from every entry fee goes to support breast cancer research here in Nottingham. An additional thank you to those running in an NBCRC vest and raising extra money for NBCRC. It makes a huge difference to what we can achieve.

NBCRC Dragon Boat Race Sunday 24 July 2022

Nottingham Rowing Club, Trentside North

Get your paddles ready to come and cheer on our intrepid Dragon Boat teams as they take on a challenge like no other! In the shadow of the City Ground, around 150 supporters of NBCRC will be taking on the ultimate team building challenge and competing to be the winners of the very first NBCRC Dragon Boat Race. Each team of 11 has been fundraising hard for the past few months, and with at least three races per team (plus semi-finals and a final), it promises to be an action packed day!

More details about the day will be available shortly for those wanting to come along and support.

IKEA Nottingham – fundraising and team building

Braving the shave

As part of their fundraising for the Dragon Boat Race two members of the Ikea team bravely braved the shave! In front of an audience of team members and Ikea customers, Brett and Archie very bravely waved goodbye to their locks, raising an amazing amount in the process!

Rowing challenge

The Ikea teams will also be holding fundraising rowing events in the entrance to the store on Saturdays in July, so feel free to go along and cheer them on!

As well as team building there could be a bit of team rivalry as I hear they have more than one boat in the race!

NBCRC welcome the Skevington family to the Biodiscovery Institute

Congratulations and a massive thank you to the 3 generations of the Skevington family who trekked to Everest Base Camp and in the process raised £1000 for NBCRC. Prof Stewart Martin and Dr Andrew Green were able to meet and personally thank the family who came to see where their donation will be put to great use.

Thompson Educational Trust supports early career breast cancer researchers

Further generous support from the Thompson Educational Trust has enabled NBCRC to make 3 awards to support the work of early career breast cancer researchers. The successful applicants were Ruth Parks, Megan Wilde and Ala AbuHammad.

Successful NBCRC post-doc/ student research day

It was fantastic to see so many people attend this event in person and also via live stream. We started the day with a riveting lecture from Dr Emma Wilson on how her experience as a patient has shaped her breast cancer research career. Secondly, we heard from Mrs Margaret Perkins, a patient representative from Independent Cancer Patients' Voice. Followed up by an inspiring account from Dr Sarah Storr on her journey and top tips from PhD student to PI. The late morning and afternoon saw 9 of our associate members present their work to an engaged audience. Many congratulations to our prize winners, Jenny Ashworth, Rasha Khader and Skye Macintyre. A big thank you to all our faculty and sponsors Merck and PHCBI. We look forward to seeing you all again at our next event, the NBCRC picnic on July 14th.
