What is a Midwifery Speaker?
We’re seeking 4 qualified midwives for a Midwifery Careers Panel. If you’re in an active management, leadership or academic role and would like to do something inspiring, this opportunity is for you!

As a Midwifery speaker you will have the opportunity to practice your public speaking skills, whilst making a positive impact on the next generation of midwives. We’d like you to be part of a panel discussion with the student midwives and hear about your career journey in a 15-20 minute presentation. Through sharing your career journey with students you will help them to understand the diversity of career options available in the wonderful world of Midwifery.

Who can be Midwifery Speaker?
If you graduated after 1970 and are now working in a senior role in Midwifery – we want to hear from you! We’re also looking for midwives with experience practising midwifery or volunteering abroad.

When does the opportunity take place?
Date: Thursday 15 March 2018
Time: 09:00 – 13:00
Location: University of Nottingham
Expected number of volunteering hours: 2, plus preparation and travel time

Who will benefit from your contribution?
Our third year student midwives will benefit greatly from hearing you speak. In a previous Student Evaluation of Module (SEM) students strongly agreed that the Midwifery Careers Panel was inspiring and informative for their own career development.

How do I apply to be a Midwifery Speaker?
Please complete an application form today – a member of the team will then be in touch to discuss the opportunity further.
