Volunteering opportunity
The ‘Where are they now?’ careers events aim to demonstrate to current students the amazing places their degree can take them. Students are inspired by hearing from alumni who studied the same subject as them. These special events allow alumni to showcase their achievements post-graduation; and for students to ask alumni questions about their career paths.

The ‘Where are they now? Languages’ event is an opportunity for languages alumni to showcase their career journey and help to influence current languages students. This particular event is to highlight careers outside of traditional translation, interpreting and teaching roles, as careers run other events that cover these areas. This event is to focus on the broader skills students can gain from a languages degree.

The event will take the form of an alumni guest panel, each speaking for around 5 minutes about their career path to current students. After this section, there will be a Q&A session giving students a chance to explore and ask further questions. This will be followed by an informal networking opportunity. As an alumni guest speaker you will be asked to share any top tips for career development and also reflect on the skills you have gained through learning a language.

Who will suit this role?
We are looking for a diverse range of volunteers from big and small employers; and would ideally like to include someone who has worked/is working in an International Office. This role is suitable for alumni who:
- Are based in the UK and can travel to Nottingham
- Studied either an Undergraduate or Postgraduate degree in Languages
- Graduated post-2000
- Have gone into a non-translation related role, unless translation is part of a broader function

When will the event take place?
Date: Wednesday 14 November 2018
Time: Afternoon (time TBC)
Expected number of volunteering hours: Approx. 3

Type of audience role will benefit
Undergraduate and Postgraduate students who are studying modern languages

Interested in volunteering?
Please complete an application form today – a member of the team will then be in touch.