Volunteering opportunity
This role invites Sociology and Social Policy alumni to share their unique career story since graduation with current students. Alumni speakers will have an opportunity to inspire current students by speaking about why they chose the job they are currently working in, how they went about progressing in this career and what tips they have to inform and inspire our current students.

Who will suit this opportunity?
Any alumni who studied Sociology at the University of Nottingham

Date, time and expected number of volunteering hours
Date: Tuesday 11 February 2020
Time: 6 – 8pm
Expected number of volunteering hours: 2.5 hours (speakers will need to arrive 30 mins before the event for a quick briefing)

Role
This volunteer opportunity will support an area of career development activities providing University of Nottingham students with an opportunity to learn about a range of career paths a degree in Sociology or Social Policy can take them down, and identify how their career path could take shape.

The speaker will be part of a panel where they get 5 minutes to introduce themselves and briefly talk about their role. We will then break off into smaller groups and run a speed networking session (max of 60 minutes). The event then finishes with informal networking.

Type of audience role will benefit
We are hoping for between 30-40 students from the School of Sociology and Social Policy.

What outcome are we seeking from this volunteering programme and how will success be measured?
Students are better informed on a sector and feel more comfortable with their career choices and potential career path.

How to apply
Please complete an application form by Friday 17 January 2020 and a member of our team will be in touch with further details.
