

Study Day to be held on 28 March 2018
School of Cultures, Languages and Areas Studies, University of Nottingham
A01 Highfield House, University Park, Nottingham

“Histoires d’Enfance”: French children in troubled times
18th-20th Centuries

Provisional programme

9.15: Welcome

9.30-10.15: Colin Heywood, Emeritus Professor of Modern French History, University of Nottingham:

‘On the Margins or in the Mainstream: The History of Childhood in France’

10.15-11.00: Siân Reynolds, University of Stirling:

‘Children of the Revolutionaries: the example of the Girondins’

11.00-11.30: Coffee Break

11.30-12.15 Fabrice Virgili, Directeur de recherche, CNRS, Paris:

‘Désertier la Grande Guerre et la paternité: le cas de Paul Grappe’

12.15-1.00: Chelsea Sambells, University of Edinburgh:

‘Convenient Humanity: Evacuating French Children to Switzerland during the Second World War’

1.00 -2.00 Lunch

2.00-2.45: Lindsey Dodd, Department of History, University of Huddersfield:

‘French Children’s Experiences of Evacuation within France during World War II’

2.45-3.30: Karen Adler: Department of History, University of Nottingham:

‘Realising Occupation: Children as a tool in the French Zone of Germany, 1945-49’

3.30 -4: Tea break

4-4.45: Sophie Heywood, Department of Modern Languages, University of Reading:

‘The Children’s ‘68: Children’s books and counter-culture’

4.45-5.30: Richard Bates, Post-doctoral Fellow, Department of History, University of Nottingham:

‘Traumatic interpretations: Françoise Dolto and the psychoanalysis of French children’.

5.30-5.45 Conclusion

5.45-6.45 Wine reception, Highfield House Cloisters

7.00 Conference dinner