

For Truth's Sake:

The History of Leicester Secular Society and its Hall

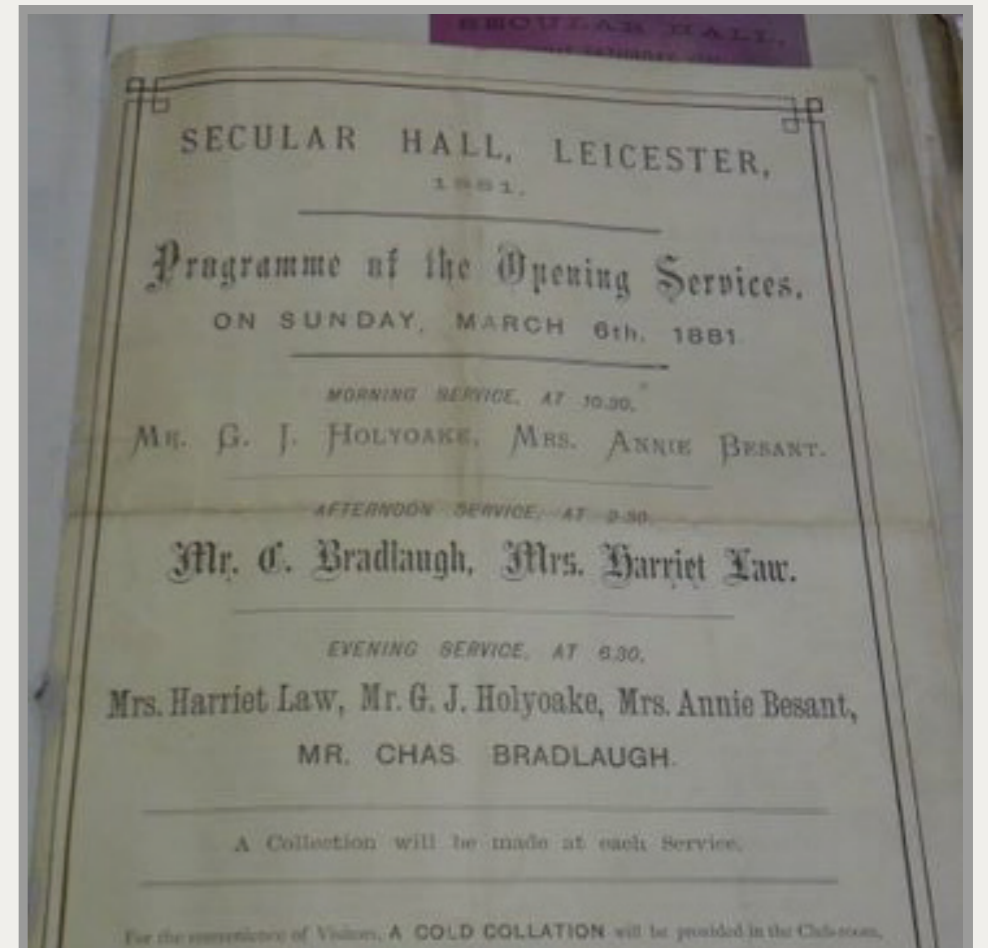

Our project aims to tell the story of Leicester Secular Society (founded in 1851) and its Hall (opened in 1881) through the 19th and 20th centuries placing it in the context of local and national events.

Recording will be in an easily accessible form so that it can be shared with the community.

We want to produce timelines, highlighting key figures, issues and ideas.

Selected themes such as women in the Society and the Society in wartime will be researched.

We hope to help to preserve and add to the Society's records, using oral histories, photographs and other records.
