Aim:
To develop a BIM-based serious game for construction management education

Methods:
- Literature review
- Game development
- Pilot test
- Assessment

Justification:
- Costly mistakes are made before decision making skills are acquired
- Learning through gaming is engaging and effective
- Learning construction management has not exploited latest computing
- BIM and gaming technologies would improve this learning