

Range Rover Evoque WISE Scholarship 2014 Open for applications

Applications are now open for the Range Rover Evoque WISE Scholarship 2014. This is the second year of an exciting collaboration between Jaguar Land Rover and WISE offering sponsorship to young women who are starting an engineering degree course at a UK University or starting an engineering apprenticeship.

After the success of the scholarship in 2013, Jaguar Land Rover has now decided to offer two scholarships in 2014. Ideally, one will go to a new apprentice and one to someone starting an engineering degree course this year.

Each winner will receive £1000 per year for three years of their studies, the offer of a mentor from Jaguar Land Rover and a mentor from WISE, and the offer of a summer placement at Jaguar Land Rover.

Please encourage your female students and trainees who are commencing an engineering degree course or apprenticeship this year to apply. This is a fantastic opportunity for your students and apprentices, as well as an excellent opportunity for your organisation to engage with this initiative and potentially receive national recognition. Please circulate this information to admissions offices, heads of engineering departments, and equal opportunity managers to ensure that as many talented female engineers as possible apply.
