

GEP Bulletin
February 2021

GEP Webinars

Tuesday, via Zoom, at 4.30pm unless otherwise stated (note new time)

Jonas Hjort (Columbia University)

02 February 2021

Individuals and organizations as sources of state effectiveness

Mingyu Chen (Princeton University)

09 February 2021 (16:30-17:45)

The value of US college education in global labour markets: Experimental evidence from China

Gaurav Khanna (University of California, San Diego)

23rd February 2021

The productivity consequences of pollution-induced migration in China.

Papers available on the GEP Research Paper Series since last Bulletin:

<https://www.nottingham.ac.uk/gep/publications/papers/index.aspx>

Please be encouraged to submit your working papers to the series.

Send to the Series Editor, Yuan Tian.

GEP 2020/28

A new Ricardian model of trade, growth and inequality – The role of financial capital

Sugata Marjit

GEP 2020/29

Participation in setting technology standards and the implied cost of equity

Xin Deng, Cher Li and Simona Mateut

GEP 2020/30

The rhetoric of closed borders: Quotas, lax enforcement and illegal immigration

Giovanni Facchini and Cecilia Testa

GEP 2021/01

Democracy doesn't always happen overnight: Regime change in stages and economic growth

Vanessa Boese and Markus Eberhardt

Dates for your diary:

Nottingham Globalisation Lecture

Thursday 11th March – 17:00hr GMT - online

Martin Wolf, Associate Editor and Chief Economics Commentator, The Financial Times

“The World Economy in 2030”

Register at: <https://worldeconomyin2030.eventbrite.co.uk>

Forthcoming Conference

19th GEP/CEPR Annual Postgraduate Conference

6th-8th May – on zoom