1 Introductory Purpose & Background
The University of Nottingham (“the University”) is committed to the prevention of fraud, the proper use of funds, and ensuring its activities are conducted openly, honestly and fairly. Consequently, it is essential that everyone associated with the University is aware of the risk of fraud, corruption and theft.

This policy sets out the way the University will discharge its duties under the Fraud Act 2006.

2 Scope
This policy covers employees, students, and activities of the University of Nottingham UK and its subsidiary companies and contractors. The University of Nottingham in Malaysia (“UNiM”) and the University of Nottingham Ningbo China (“UNNC”) have separate fraud policies.

Fraud can be perpetrated by persons outside as well as inside an organisation.

3 Definitions
Fraud
The Fraud Act 2006 creates a specific offence of fraud, defining it as a dishonest act, through false representation, failure to disclose information or abuse of position, with the intent of causing a gain for self, or loss to another

The emphasis is on showing the intent of the person committing the fraud rather than demonstrating the loss to the victim.

The criminal act is the attempt to deceive and therefore attempted fraud is treated as seriously as accomplished fraud.

4 Policy
4.1 Key principles
The University has a zero-tolerance approach to fraud or corruption and; any case of potential fraud will be thoroughly investigated and determined in accordance with the Fraud Response Plan.

The University expects staff to always conduct themselves with the highest standards of honesty, propriety and integrity in the exercise of their duties. The University expects all its staff, officers, representatives and partners to follow the ethical behaviours set out in the Nolan Principles. Those are: selflessness, integrity, objectivity, accountability, openness, honesty and leadership. These Principles underpin the university’s Ethical Framework and are incorporated into this policy.

The University seeks to:
- encourage fraud awareness and prevention
- encourage the reporting of fraud
- promote detection and investigation of fraud
- recover wrongfully obtained assets from the perpetrators of fraud
- pursue corrective action in the event of fraud via its disciplinary procedures and by reporting criminal activity to the Police

The Code of Research Conduct and Research Ethics provides a comprehensive framework for research conduct, to guard against fraud and to promote good governance of all research carried out across the University and research activity must conform to this Code. Failure to comply with the provisions of that Code will be grounds for action to be taken in line with the Code of Practice on Handling Allegations of Research Misconduct.

4.2 Roles and Responsibilities

Council and Audit and Risk Committee are responsible for approving the Fraud Policy and will receive reports on any fraudulent activity and the actions taken to prevent further occurrences.

The Vice-Chancellor and President of the University is the Accountable Officer of the University under the regulatory framework of the Office for Students. Suspected fraud must be reported to the Vice Chancellor via the Chief Financial Officer in accordance with the Fraud Response Plan.

The Chief Financial Officer is responsible for the design and establishment of the internal financial control system, managing fraud risk in the context of overall risks to the University and is responsible to the Vice-Chancellor for the organisation of the investigation of fraud in consultation with the Registrar and the Director of Internal Audit.

The Registrar is responsible for liaison with the Chief Financial Officer and the Director of Internal Audit regarding the investigation of fraud, and interaction with the Vice-Chancellor where the frauds involve University students or where the case has been reported under the University’s whistleblowing procedure.

The Director of Internal Audit is responsible for:
- investigations of allegations of fraud
- gathering evidence, taking statements, and writing reports on suspected frauds
- liaising with the Chief Financial Officer and the Registrar
- instructing the Head of Security Services to report the fraud to the Police
- reporting the fraud to Action Fraud (or equivalent)
- providing reports on fraud to the Audit and Risk Committee
- identifying weaknesses which contributed to the fraud
- making recommendations for any necessary remedial action
- following up any agreed remedial action

Employees are expected to always conduct themselves with the highest standards of honesty, propriety, and integrity in the exercise of their duties. The interests of the University must be paramount in all dealings, and staff are reminded of their duty to act in accordance with the Anti-Bribery policy, the Conflict of Interests policy, the Anti-Money Laundering policy and the Travel and Expenses policy. Employees are reminded that they are responsible for:

- Acting with propriety in the use of University resources and in the handling and use of public funds whether they are involved with cash or payment systems, receipts or dealing with contractors or suppliers
- Reporting details of any suspected fraud, impropriety, or dishonest activity, whether by an employee or an external party, immediately to their Head of School or Department, or to one of the Chief Financial Officer, The Registrar, or the Director of Internal Audit
- Cooperating or assisting in the investigation of any suspected fraud.

Managers should be alert to the possibility that unusual events may be indicators of fraud or attempted fraud and that fraud may be highlighted because of management checks or be brought to their attention by a third party. They are responsible for:

- Being aware of the risk of fraud
- Ensuring that systems of internal control, appropriate to the risk involved, exist within their area of responsibility, and that those controls are properly operated and complied with
- Reviewing control systems to satisfy themselves that the systems continue to operate effectively
- Reporting details of any suspected fraud, impropriety, or dishonest activity, whether by an employee or an external party, immediately to their Head of School or Department, or to one of the Chief Financial Officer, The Registrar or the Director of Internal Audit.

Students are expected to always conduct themselves with the highest standards of honesty, propriety, and integrity during their studies. Students are reminded that they are responsible for:

- Acting with propriety in the use of University resources
- Reporting details of any suspected fraud, impropriety, or dishonest activity, whether by an employee or an external party, immediately to their Head of School or Department, or to one of the Chief Financial Officer, The Registrar, or the Director of Internal Audit
- Cooperating or assisting in the investigation of any suspected fraud.

4.3.1 Reporting fraud

Employees and students are positively encouraged to raise any concerns they may have. Such concerns can be raised in the knowledge that they will be treated in confidence and in accordance with the Public Interest Disclosure Act 1998. This statute protects the legitimate personal interests of staff. The University Whistleblowing (Public Interest Disclosure) Code provides further information.

Instances of suspected fraud should be promptly reported to either the Director of Internal Audit, the Registrar, or the Chief Financial Officer. Reports can be made in writing, via email phone call or other communication. Suspected fraud can be reported anonymously, but it is helpful for investigations if concerns are raised openly. In practice, you may wish to discuss the suspected fraud with your line manager prior to reporting. You should not discuss the matter with the individual/s you suspect of committing fraud, and you should not attempt to investigate the matter yourself.

Any allegations of fraud or irregularity will be properly and promptly investigated. Where allegations are made and are subsequently proved to be malicious and unfounded, this will be referred for consideration as a serious disciplinary offence under the University’s disciplinary procedures.

In the event of a report which would amount to a potential breach of the University’s conditions of registration with the Office for Students, including:

- a material adverse change
- a significant and immediate threat to the University’s financial position;
- significant fraud, or
- impropriety, or major accounting breakdown,

this will be reported to the Chair of the Audit and Risk Committee, the Chair of Council, the Director of Internal Audit and, the external auditor and the Director of Governance and Assurance (the University’s Accountable Officer to the Office for Students).

4.3.2 Responding to instances of fraud

The University has in place a detailed Fraud Response Plan that sets out the steps to follow when a fraud is either suspected or found to have taken place. Any substantial variation from the Fraud Response Plan requires the approval of the Vice-Chancellor. The Chair of Audit and Risk Committee will be consulted as appropriate. The Fraud Response Plan is available on request from the Director of Internal Audit.

4.4 Consequences of non-compliance

Should instances occur involving the theft of University property, and/or fraud, then as a publicly funded institution, it is a principle of this policy to treat the matter seriously by instigating disciplinary proceedings, (noting that theft and fraud are gross misconduct offences), and to notify the Police and other appropriate authorities.

The University will always consider seeking the prosecution of fraudulent activity irrespective of the value.

4.5 How compliance with the policy will be measured.

Either on completion of a fraud investigation, or after assessing that no investigation is necessary, the Director of Internal audit will review the facts and circumstances of the event, assessing whether the policy has been appropriately followed. In instances where the policy was not followed, guidance will be provided as to what the appropriate action should have been, and consideration will be given as to whether wider fraud awareness training, including awareness of this policy, is required.

4.6 Provisions for monitoring and reporting related to the policy.

The Director of Internal Audit briefs the Audit and Risk Committee at each meeting on any completed fraud investigations and prepares an annual report for University Executive Board on suspected fraud and irregularity.

5 Review

This policy will be reviewed every 2 years, or following the conclusion of any investigation, if sooner.
6 Related policies, procedures, standards, and guidance

The University has a range of policy guidance which offers advice and sets out the regulations pertaining to several areas, some of which may impact on the Fraud policy:
