

Fire Awareness;

Transcript – Fire safety is your responsibility.

(Jo enters the kitchen; flatmate Amy is by the sink and finishing making a cup of tea.)

Jo

Hi Amy, how's things?

Amy

Oh, good thanks! How are you, I heard you were caught up in the fire at Uni the other day, are you OK?

Jo

(Reflective)

I'm fine thanks – I think; honestly, it was really scary how quickly the fire spread, I was really glad this guy Henry came and made me leave.

Amy

Oh! Your knight in shining armour?

Jo

Hardly, although I was really lucky he was there though, as I would have just sat there ignoring the fire alarm. I dread to think....

I mean why didn't I know what to do when the alarm went off? I haven't slept well since.

Amy

It is alright Jo!

Jo

I'm just terrified it's going to happen again.

And I went to Uni yesterday and saw a load of rubbish on the stairs.

I mean if that would have been there on the day we would never have been able to escape the fire.

I mean and look at that...

(Jo points to the fire extinguisher propping open the door.)

... TJ came in last night wasted, nearly set fire to the toaster. I mean; where's the smoke detector here?

Amy

Do you know what? I think you should give someone at Uni a call, they can maybe help put your mind at rest about the fire risk issues that you have seen?

Jo

Yeh – well I have tried that, but I'm not sure who to contact? I looked on the Uni website last night and think I've got to contact the Safety office.

Amy

Well go on, give them a call!

Jo

Ok!

(Jo picks up her mobile phone to make a call.)
