Project Summary

Following on from HRLC's FRALEX Project (2008-2011), HRLC is now the national contractor for the United Kingdom for FRANET, the FRA's multi-disciplinary research network. For the next four years HRLC will provide data collection and research services on fundamental rights issues in the United Kingdom for the FRA and the European Institute for Gender Equality (EIGE).

Through the FRANET network, HRLC regularly produces legal studies and reports on specific fundamental rights issues in the UK.

These publications include updates on developments in the thematic areas of concern to the FRA and analysis of UK laws and practices according to fundamental rights and principles of EU law.

Participants

2011- 2015: The FRANET reports are produced by a team of UK Legal and Social experts, led by Senior Expert Professor David Harris.

Activities/Content

Under the auspices of the European Human Rights Law Unit, HRLC will respond to specific requests for services by the Agency, providing objectives, reliable and comparable socio-legal data on fundamental rights issues to facilitate the FRA's comparative analysis at EU level.
