

Human Rights and the Privileges and Immunities of International Organisations Workshop

Thursday, 5 December 2019
University of Nottingham

Council Room, Trent Building, University Park Campus

09:30 Arrival and coffee/tea

10:00 Welcome and introductions

10:10-12:00 Morning panel

Chair: Professor David Harris, University of Nottingham

Jam v. IFC: A pivotal moment for the law of global governance,
Professor Eyal Benvenisti, University of Cambridge

Finding the Appropriate Balance Between the Immunity of Multilateral Development Banks and Public Accountability: A Proposal

Professor Daniel Bradlow, University of Pretoria

Immunities of IO officials and diplomatic immunities in the context of claims by domestic servants and victims of human trafficking and other forms of modern slavery

Professor Philippa Webb, King's College London

Discussant: Professor Mary Footer, University of Nottingham

12:00-13:00 Lunch, followed by coffee/tea

13:00-15:20

Afternoon panel

Chair: Professor Dominic McGoldrick, University of Nottingham

UN-Accountable: immunity or impunity for human rights violations in UN peacekeeping operations?

Professor Rosa Freedman, University of Reading

The UN as Human Rights Violator in Peacekeeping Operations? Implications for Immunity

Professor Nigel White, University of Nottingham

Humanitarians and Human Rights Abuses: Responsibility under International Law?

Dr Christy Shucksmith-Wesley, University of Nottingham

Accountability of international organisations for human rights,
Professor Robert McCorquodale, University of Nottingham

Discussant: Professor Marko Milanovic, University of Nottingham

15:20-15:30

Conclusion and wrap-up, Professor Mary Footer

15:30-16:15

Drinks and canapés