202 INQ • <for default of jurors> Roger Gyrdeinthecope <offered> and Matilda his wife complain of Edusa of Mansfield <offered>. When Edusa was alone on Thurs²⁵ the feast of St Barnabas 9 Edward II (11 June 1316) in John's [Edusa's husband's] house Matilda leased by charter to John and Edusa his wife a messuage with an adjacent curtilage in Pilcher Gate (le Pilesergate) from the said Thurs for a term of eight years following under the condition that John and Edusa should renew and repair the messuage with curtilage at their own expense in all things and in a good condition; at the end of the term Edusa broke the walls of the house and tore down the lead guttering and allowed it to be carried away and the timber of the house became rotten on account of the default of the thatch. Because of that Roger and Matilda went to Edusa and asked her to repair and cause the defaults to be repaired and to hold the covenant between them. Edusa was unwilling to hold the covenant but entirely refused to hold [it]. Damages: 20s. They produce suit. Edusa comes and defends the force and says that the messuage with buildings (edific) was leased in as good condition as on the day she rented [it]. Inq.

Writ precipe to the sheriff and bailiffs of Nottingham. Order William of Mexborough <offered, essoin> and Margery his wife <essoin, offered by attorney> that justly and without delay they should render to Margery <essoin> widow of Roger Totel a message; order Stephen le Taverner of Nottingham that justly and without delay he should render to Margery widow of Roger a message which she claims to be her right of the gift of Henry son of William of Lincoln of Nottingham, who enfeoffed Margery, widow of Roger, and Roger, her sometime husband, and now William and Margery his wife and Stephen do not have entry except after the lease which Roger, Margery's sometime husband, made to Ralph de Basages, which she, in his lifetime, was unable to refuse. She complains that William and Margery his wife and Stephen are deforcing [her]. If they do not do it, let Margery, widow of Roger, give you security for prosecuting her claim. Summon by good summoners that William and [Mar]gery his wife and Stephen should be before the king's justices at Westminster from the quindene of Michaelmas (13 Oct 1324) to show why they have not done this. Witness the king, Tonbridge, 28 June 17 Edward II (1324).

422 SIGNUM NOT' • Margery daughter of John Bryan pl offers herself v Robert Fraunceis. She seeks emption of a messuage which John sold to Robert and offers money. Robert comes and says that Margery ought not to have emption of the messuage on account that William Bryan is the next of kin. He seeks judgement if this emption ought to be brought in William's lifetime. Margery says that it is lawful she should be considered next of kin [and] that he ought not to prevent (excludi) her to claim and to have emption because by custom of ancient usage and by the king's charter confirming the usage that some other kinsman could come within a year and a day after the sale was made. She seeks emption of someone who has the tenement and Robert does not have power to deny [this] because Margery is a kinswoman of John Bryan. She seeks judgement. Adjudged that Margery should have emption of the messuage to her and her heirs forever saving ever the acceptance (accipione) of the next of kin if they should wish to plead within a year and a day thereafter.

Plea coram rege at Westminster on the quindene of St Hilary 18 Edward II (27 Jan 1325). Roll 51. G[eoffrey] le Scrop'.

NOTTINGHAM Bartholomew of Cotgrave of Nottingham attached to reply to Robert of Brumby of Nottingham. Plea: [trespass against the king's peace]. With force and arms Bartholomew made an assault on Robert at Nottingham, beat, wounded and maltreated him. Robert complains that on Mon after the feast of St Thomas the martyr 18 Edward II (31 Dec 1324) Bartholomew with force and arms (sword) made the trespass on Robert. Damages: £100. He produces suit. Bartholomew comes and defends the force. The mayor and commonalty of the vill come by William of Langar, their attorney, to prosecute the claims and defence to their liberties. They say that King Edward [II] on 16 Mar 1314 inspected and confirmed certain charters of his ancestors namely King John and King Henry [III] his grandfather. The king, wishing to make further favour to the same burgesses, now grants to them for himself and his heirs for the melioration of the king's vill of Nottingham and the advantage of the king's burgesses of the same vill so that no-one shall plead or be impleaded before the king, his heirs or any of his justices outside the borough concerning lands or tenements which are in the borough, or concerning trespasses or contracts, or anything else, or issues made in the borough, but all other kinds of pleas pleaded which shall befall before the king, his heirs or any of his justices of king's bench or other things summoned or attached outside the borough, should be pleaded and determined before the mayor and bailiffs of the borough within the borough, except those which shall concern the king or his heirs or the commonalty of the borough and he offers a confirmation of the king as witness. Since the said plea does not concern the king nor the commonalty of the vill they seek their liberty namely of having cognizance of the said plea in their borough before the mayor and bailiffs of the borough. Concerning this the king commanded his justices in these words: Mandate of Edward II to Geoffrey le Scrop' and his fellow justices that by his charter he has granted to the burgesses of Nottingham these liberties: that none of them shall plead or be impleaded before him or his heirs or any of his justices outside the borough concerning lands or tenements which are in the borough, or concerning trespasses or contracts or anything else made in the same borough, or issues, but all other kinds of pleas which should happen to be summoned or attached before the king, his heirs or justices of king's bench pleaded outside the borough shall be pleaded and terminated before the mayor and bailiffs of the borough whoever they may be at the time within the borough, unless those pleas should concern the king, his heirs or commonalty of burgesses; that none shall be placed with forinsec men on assizes, juries or any inquisitions which by reason of the tenement or trespass or of other forinsec business whatsoever before the justices or other ministers [or] ... the king's ministers or his heir they should have arisen (emerserint faciend'), nor that forinsec men shall be placed with them [on assizes], juries or any inquisitions by reason of land or tenement existing in the same borough ... or any other internal business arising in the borough ... were arising in the borough by the burgesses of the vill ... that should concern the king, his heirs or the commonalty of the borough. Mandate that the burgesses of the liberty ... the justices should allow each of them to use and enjoy before the king according to the tenor of the said charter ... not molested or oppressed in any way. Witness the king, Nottingham, 11 Dec 18 Edward II (1324). Let the mayor and commonalty have their liberty. Let the record of the aforesaid ... with the transcript of the original writ be sent to them. The mayor and commonalty, by W[illiam of Langar], their [attorney], fix a day for the parties [to be] before them at Nottingham in the Guildhall on Wed ... of Lent.

573 BY WRIT SIGNUM Margery widow of Roger Totel, by Simon of Woodborough her attorney, seeks v Stephen le Taverner of Nottingham a messuage as her right of the gift of Henry son of William of Lincoln of Nottingham who enfeoffed the same Margery and Roger, her sometime husband, whereof Margery was seised in her demesne as of fee and right in a time of peace from the time of King Edward I to take the profits and in which Stephen did not have entry except after the lease which Roger, the sometime Margery's husband, made to Ralph de Basage, which she, during his lifetime, was unable to refuse. She produces suit. Stephen in his own person comes and defends the force and Margery's right. He says that Margery is able to demand nothing concerning the messuage [and] that Margery after the death of Roger her husband released forever to Stephen all [her] right and claim and concerning this he offers the quitclaim as witness. Release and quitclaim by Margery widow of Roger Totel to Stephen le Taverner of Nottingham of all her right and claim that she has or had in a messuage in Bellar Gate (le Belwordgate) between the tenement of John of Tithby on the one part and the tenement of Roger le Wryght on the other [part]. Release of interest clause. Sealing. Witness. Nottingham, Mon in Easter week 18 Edward II (8 Apr 1325). Margery widow of Roger comes in full court in her own person and was examined if the quitclaim was hers. Margery agrees that it was hers. Adjudged that Margery should take nothing by her writ but in mercy for a false claim. Stephen without day.

581 BY WRIT JUDGEMENT • <amor without essoin> Margery widow of Roger Totel, by Simon of Woodborough her attorney, seeks v William of Mexborough and Margery his wife a messuage as her right of the gift of Henry son of William of Lincoln of Nottingham who enfeoffed the same Margery and Roger, her sometime husband, whereof Margery was seised in her demesne as of the fee and right in a time of peace from the time of King Edward I to take the profits and in which William and Margery did not have entry except after the lease which Roger, Margery's sometime husband, made to Ralph de Basages, which she, during his lifetime, was unable to refuse. She produces suit. William in his own person and Margery his wife, by Robert Colle her attorney, come and defend the force and the right of Margery widow of Roger. They say that Margery widow of Roger was unable to have action of seeking (petendi) according to the custom of the vill and they say in fact that Roger and Margery his wife, who now seeks, enfeoffed by their charter jointly sealed with the seals of the same Roger and Margery, which they offer in court, Ralph de Basages of the messuage, the state (statum) of whom the same William and Margery now have. Afterwards the same

Margery widow of Roger, agreeing to the alienation and affixing her seal with that of Roger, her sometime husband, to the charter, comes in full court and was examined concerning this according to the custom of the vill. They wish this to be verified by the country by which they do not intend that Margery on this part is not able to have an action. Margery widow of Roger still says the reply is neither satisfactory nor admissible. She says that when William and Margery his wife in their reply say that Margery widow of Roger was examined in court they did not say before which mayor and bailiffs in which year nor on what day upon which things the court ought to have been informed in many reasons in this part, by which Margery seeks judgement concerning their omission because this is not clear.⁶¹ William and Margery his wife say that Margery was adequately examined in court.
