NOTTINGHAM William Pykard in mercy for many defaults. The same William was summoned to reply to Simon Bertevill. Plea: that he should render his reasonable account from the time he was receiver of Simon's money. Simon, by John de Ayleston his attorney, says that William was his receiver of money from Easter 28 Edward III (13 Apr 1354) for a whole year following; for that time he received £500 of Simon's money by Simon's hands at Nottingham for selling (ad mercandizand') to Simon's profit, whereof he ought to have made a faithful account; he has not yet rendered to Simon but has refused to render till now, and he still refuses.
