311 [Attached piece 28 x 6cm.] Writ precipe. The king to the sheriff of Nottingham. If William Pouger of Wilsthorpe has given the sheriff security for prosecuting his claim ... [v] Walter son of William of Gotham, then he should be before the king on the octave of the feast of St Martin (18 Nov 1357), wherever he will then be in England, to show why he broke into William's houses with force and arms, took and carried off a mazer (macerum) and his other goods and chattels found there to the value of £10, and inflicted other enormities on him to William's damage and against the king's peace, and have there ... the plgs and this writ. to the value of £10 found there and inflicted [other enormities on him], to [his] grievous damage and against the peace. William, by Richard Boys his attorney, complained that on Mon after [the feast] of the annunciation BVM 30 Edward III (28 Mar 1356) Walter broke into his houses at Nottingham, took and carried off a mazer and his other goods and chattels found there against the peace: linen and woollen cloth, a bronze and wooden vessel, trestle tables, vats and other household utensils (pannos lineos et laneos vasa enea et lignea tabulas trisell' et cuvas et alia utensilia domus). Damages: £40. He produces suit. Walter, by John of Kegworth his attorney, comes and defends the force. On this Richard of Frisby, attorney of the mayor and bailiffs of Nottingham, comes, claiming their liberty. Walter was asked if he knew ... why the mayor and bailiffs ought not to have this plea; he said no. Because other liberties of this kind in similar cases in this court were allowed to them, that is, between Alice of Kirton pl and Thomas de Amyas and others ..., as is shown by roll 43 from Michaelmas 32 Edward III, adjudged that the mayor and bailiffs should have their liberty. Day given to the parties at Nottingham before the mayor and bailiffs on Wed after the feast of St Gregory (14 Mar 1358). It was said to the said attorney that swift justice should be shown to the parties.

and 100s. rent with appurtenances in Nottingham as Matilda's dower from the endowment of Ralph of Cropwell, kt, sometime her husband. Walter comes and says when [Matilda] seeks dower of a moiety, it is clear that it is against the common law without any special cause (contra legem communem absque aliqua speciali causa). He seeks judgement. John and Matilda say that the messuages [and rent] are in the English borough of Nottingham, within which English Borough women ... ought to be dowered with half of their husband's ... [lands] and tenements ... by custom of the said borough they seek her dower. As to the rent, Walter says he has nothing of the rent. He seeks judgement. As to the 4 messuages, he replies as tenant (r' ut tenens), that by custom ... when a husband sells land or tenements within the said borough ... for the common benefit of both the husband and wife and for their common use, that the wife of ... sold ... money then the proceeds in the said form are so expended (vend' ...de denar' inde provenientes in forma predicta sic expens' sunt) after the death of her husband, [the wife] ought not to have [her] dower. Furthermore, he says that Ralph of Cropwell, sometime Matilda's husband, the dower of whom they now seek, sold the 4 messuages to Walter of Lincoln, Walter's ancestor, of whom he is heir, the money which arose thereof was [expended] (inde devenerunt ...ens fuerunt) for Ralph and Matilda's common use. He seeks judgement if she ought to have the dower. John and Matilda say that Walter is the full tenant of the rent, as they charge (supponunt) by their writ. This they seek to be verified, [Walter] similarly. John and Matilda say that when Walter generally alleges that the money from land and tenements sold in the borough is received in the said form ... a wife ought not [to have her] dower after the death of her husband¹⁰⁵ that the custom of the vill generally ... is not such unless he alleges any special addition, such as sale on account of necessity (nisi allegat aliquod specialem additum vel vendicionem causa¹⁰⁶ necessitatis¹⁰⁷) and this they seek to be verified. Walter comes and says the custom of the vill generally is such as he alleges above and he seeks ... [this to be verified]; John and Matilda similarly.
