174 JUDGEMENT Margaret (M'gareta) de Plumptr' complains of Robert Bladesmyth. Plea: debt on account that he should render £8. Margery, by her attorney,⁹ says that on Mon after Michaelmas 12 Henry IV [6 Oct 1410] before Thomas Plumptre, chaplain, and John Ettewell of Nottingham, assigned auditors, she accounted for divers sums of money, whereof Robert was found in arrears of the said sum of £8, by which the action accrued to Margaret to seek the £8; he did not render, refused to render and still refuses. Damages: £10. She produces suit. Robert comes in his own person and says that he should not be held to reply to the plea for the insufficiency of the same because she did not count in her suit in speciali by whom the auditors had been assigned, nor by the part of the pl, nor by the def, nor by either party the auditors had been assigned the account. Robert seeks judgement that Margery should take nothing by her suit. Margery says, by her attorney, that the plaint is sufficient in itself licet non narravit in that suit in speciali not by whom, etc., the said auditors were assigned the account. She seeks judgement.
