

History Postgraduate Work in Progress seminars 2019-20

History Postgraduate Work in Progress seminars are organised by History postgraduates (both taught and research) for History postgraduates. They offer the chance to develop presentation and research skills, to share your experience, to seek help and advice, and to get to know your fellow postgraduates and their research.

Seminars take place in A01 Humanities, 5-6pm. Tea and coffee provided.

Wednesday 16 October

Material Culture: Finding 'Things' in the Archive Vivien Chan
Ideologies and the Ideational in British Political History Joe Himsworth

Exploring the Grey Zone of Cultural Production during War and Conflict: Theoretical, Ethical and Practical Implications
Odila Schroeder

Wednesday 6 November

Contact with the Enemy: The Evolving Thesis and Building an Academic Career? Mike Noble
Exploring Animals in History Matthew Carter

Wednesday 4 December

Workshop: Approaching Archival Research Abroad
Natalie Grace and Jess Lovett

Wednesday 20 November

Meritocracy: Searching for the Concept before the Word
David Civil and David Robinson

Wednesday 11 December

Tracing Female Social Ties in Tudor England: Sources and Methodologies Emily Chambers
Navigating Femininity in the Crimean War Zone Darcie Mawby

Any questions? Have an idea for a seminar in spring 2020? Email natalie.grace@nottingham.ac.uk or james.smith2@nottingham.ac.uk. Twitter: @UoNHistory_PGs