An important presentation and you're stuck in traffic and late! Instead of arriving cool, calm and collected you are hot and bothered with stress levels that are sky high. Wouldn't it be much easier if you didn't have to leave your office to give your presentation?

Wouldn't it be much easier to have a web conferencing tool that is so simple to use that a new user can be delivering their first presentation in under 15 minutes?

Web conferencing is the fastest growing application in the conferencing services sector as more and more companies tasked with reducing their bottom line are seeking new, innovative ways to conduct their day to day business.

MeetingZone Presenter is a web conferencing tool that enables you to give remote presentations via the Internet in conjunction with an audio conference call. At your fingertips you have a host of tools, including the essentials, to present PowerPoint slides, diagrams, pictures and hold on-line audience polls, to as many people as you like, simultaneously and instantly. You can choose to schedule a conference or start one immediately.

Unlike many other web presentation applications, anybody with a standard web browser can take part in a MeetingZone Presenter session. There is no need to install complicated software or change computer settings. Additionally, it is very firewall friendly and doesn't conflict with firewalls in the way that many other conventional web conferencing tools do.
