

Books available at Linghams Heswall, other good bookshops, and Amazon www.nottingham.ac.uk/-sczsteve

The Viking Trail – an informal one – suggested by Professor Steve Harding steve.harding@nottingham.ac.uk

The Viking Trail artwork by Neil Rees neil@sunrisedp.co.uk

Originally published in Waiting Magazine

Important! Please do not trespass on private land, and be especially careful of traffic, whether you are driving, cycling or walking. People following The Viking Trail do so at their own risk.

with Professor Stephen Harding

Experience Wirral's wonderful Viking heritage, including some of its superbly preserved stonework and some beautiful scenery, as you tour our ancient peninsula.

Details of parking and refreshments shown in italics. Important! People following the Trail do so at their own risk. Be careful of traffic and please do not trespass on private land.

THURSTASTON VISITOR CENTRE, Station Road. Thurstaston is the site of the Viking Thorsteinn's farmstead. from which the place name derives. This is a good starting point to plan the rest of the trail. with occasional talks on the Vikings given to visiting groups. If you have a group that would like a talk here, please contact steve.harding@nottingham.ac.uk. Refreshments in the Centre and at the café close by. Car parking.

THURSTASTON COMMON This is the highest point on north Wirral. A 10 minute walk from the car park across the common and into a hollow takes you to an impressive large outcrop of sandstone, called Thor's Stone. A legend in Wirral (which cannot be traced back further than the Victorians) claims that this is from mjöllnir: Thor's hammer. It is the site of Viking style marriages (attracting enthusiasts from around the country) and of May 1st celebrations. Pub next to the car park.

THINGWALL (old Old Norse bing-volr = assembly field) This is famously where Wirral's own Norse Assembly or Parliament was held. The site of the 'Thing' is believed to have been Cross Hill (opposite the reservoir). Its elevated position, in common with sites in Scandinavia and elsewhere, would have been the ideal place (Thing: slope or brekka) for the speaker to make themselves heard. The hill itself is privately owned, and you cannot go on it, but you can get a good view of the approach to the law-speaker's mound from the Viking Information Board at the Bassett Hound pub and a great close-up view from Holmwood Drive. Imagine the Norse leader Ingimund addressing a meeting of the Thing: "Förum first bónarveg að þeim, og ef við náum þeim ekki með góðu, þá skulum við taka þá með valdi'' ("Let us beseech and implore them first, and if we do not get them willingly in this way let us contest them by force") - the words which, according to the Irish annals he gave to the local chiefs of the Norse and Danes in AD907 as he planned his attack on Chester, Pub Bassett Hound close by, Beware of traffic.

NESTON PARISH CHURCH

This is the site of magnificent stone fragments that appear to depict events in the life of a Viking couple. The fragments of what used to be at least two hiberno- Norse ring-headed crosses are now beautifully displayed inside the front entrance of the church and one cross - which has the touching image of a Viking couple embracing (pictured). and what appears to be the earliest depiction of a jousting contest has been beautifully reconstructed. Another, of a priest, appears very similar to one at Urnes in Norway. Parking and toilets in the town and Stanley are strongly connected with 'Sir Gawain and the Green Knight', the famous 14th century poem full of Norse dialect.

RABY MERE This is the a beautiful lake setting. Enjoy a picnic and cross the famous and ancient stolpi stepping stones over the River Dibbin. Parking on road.

BEBINGTON HEATH

(edge of golf course or Grammar School grounds) is a favoured site by the experts for the Battle of Brunanburh (the old name

STORETON HALL AND

"the great farmstead"

in Viking and also, centuries

later, was the home of Sir

John Stanley, Both Hall

WOODS Storeton means for Bromborough is Brunanburh).

Parkina on Stanton Road.

boundary of the original

Wirral-Norse settlement, and Parking on road. Privately owned. but you can see the site of the 14th century farm from the bottom of Red Hill

Road.

FOOTBALL GROUND Tran-melr or Trana-melr

"sandbank with the herons or cranebirds' is unique in being the only football team in the English league with a Norwegian Viking name. Go along and cheer the Norse cranebirds favourite team!

WALLASEY BREKKA AND KLINT Brekka means "slope on a hillside" and klint means "projecting rock" (now called Granny's Rock, above). It is only possible to climb safely to the top of this rock with climbing gear. Limited parking on Millthwaite Road.

MEOLS or the old Viking seaport Melar ("sandbanks"). Parking along seafront. Viking information board at Meols Park.

TANSKEY or Tonnsker "tooth skerry" rocks are iust out from the West

Kirby shore. south of Hilbre Island. They can be approached at low tide but please be careful of incoming tides. Parkina on road side. Best (and safest) viewed from restaurant with a Viking name - Tanskeys.

ST. BRIDGETS CHURCH, WEST KIRBY As the site of the famous Viking hogback tombstone (above), this is the perfect end to the Viking Trail. Other stonework attributed to the Vikings is in the superb and completely refurbished Charles Dawson Brown Museum. Parking on roadside and in Ashton Park. West Kirby contains a restaurant which has Viking connections: The Wro (wro meaning "corner") on Grange Road.

BITTEN BY THE VIKING BUG? THEN DON'T MISS...

Bridget's Church in West Kirby to the Church of St. Mary & St. Helen in Neston, and from the National Waterways Museum in Ellesmere every year at the end of July.

ST. OLAV'S VIKING WALKS from St. Port to St. Olave's in Chester, take place

