

Get Up Stand Up! is a collaborative project between New Art Exchange and NCCL at the Galleries of Justice Museum, exploring notions of International Civil Rights with young people. A series of workshops informed a brand new gallery tour using digital technologies, showing at the Galleries of Justice from March to September 2015 (bookings via Galleries of Justice).

Please join us for a series of debates, held in collaboration with the Centre for Research in Race and Rights (C3R) at the University of Nottingham, where leading activists and academics will be in dialogue with the artists who contributed to the project:

Thursdays, 6pm – 8pm at New Art Exchange

May 7

Modern-Day Slavery: How to Make the Antislavery Past Usable

Kevin Bales (Walk Free), Zoe Trodd (C3R) and Fiona Cameron (Nottingham Refugee Forum).

June 4

Grassroots Activism: How to Make Black Lives Matter

Lisa Robinson (Bright Ideas Nottingham), Peter Ling (C3R) and Cecile Wright (Labour Black Network).

July 9

Racial Equality and Antiracism: How to Rethink Identity and Belonging

Jagdish Patel (The Monitoring Group), Janna Graham (C3R) and Get Up Stand Up! artists.

August 20

Cultural Activism: How to Make Black Histories Visible

Lubaina Himid (Institute for Black Atlantic Research), Celeste-Marie Bernier (C3R), Veronica Barnes (Blue Mountain Ladies Group) and Bo Olawoye (Freelance Learning & Engagement Curator).

September 10

Black Men and Invisibility: How to Rethink the Criminal Justice System

Martin Glynn (Centre for Health and Social Care Improvement), Vivien Miller (C3R) and Get Up, Stand Up! artists.

Location: NAE

Age range: All welcome (please note may contain adult themes and imagery)

Admission: FREE