

Spaces of Occupation

A one day workshop at University of Nottingham Malaysia Campus

Monday 27 May 2019, 09:00 - 18:00

Kuala Lumpur Teaching Centre, No 3 Jalan Canlay, 50450 Kuala Lumpur

This workshop brings together scholars from multiple disciplines working at the nexus of history, geography, and foreign occupation in Asia. Discussion at the workshop will address:

- How occupation gave rise to new forms of cultural expression in the spatial realm
- How cultural representations, and interpretations of space and landscape, altered occupation
- The relationship between space, place, and scale under occupation
- How occupation led to the development of different spatial regimes
- What a spatial analysis contributes to the history of occupation

Find out about the COTCA project at www.nottingham.ac.uk/research/groups/cotca

For more information please email David.Baillargeon@nottingham.ac.uk

