Funding your Undergraduate Course

Transcript

Slide 1
Hello. My name is Alison Barnard and I work in the Funding and Financial Support Team at the University of Nottingham. This presentation is to give some information about how you can fund your undergraduate course at University.

Slide 2
I’ll give you an overview of funding for students starting a first undergraduate degree course in September 2018. The statutory funding information is only for students who usually live in England. If you live in Wales, Northern Ireland or Scotland please check with your own funding body.

I’ll go through the funding offered by the Government through the Student Loans Company, including some repayment information; the generous bursaries awarded by the University, and at the end I’ll offer some ideas for other ways to obtain funds whilst you are a student.

Slide 3
In 2018/19 the University will charge a tuition fee of £9,250 for new undergraduate students. It is possible that an annual inflationary increase will apply, if allowed by Government.

Home and EU students can apply for a loan which covers the full cost of the fee which isn’t means tested. That means you can apply for the loan regardless of your household income. Tuition fee loans are paid direct to the University rather than to you, the student.

Slide 4
You can also apply for a loan towards your living costs. How much you get depends on Student Finance’s assessment of your household income. The maximum loan in 2018 is £8,700 assuming you are living away from home and outside of London. You can get a proportion of this loan without having an income assessment carried out; that is £4,054 – less if you live with your parents. For anything above that amount you must have an income assessment carried out by Student Finance.

Slide 5
(A table showing household income levels with the amount of loan the student may receive.) This table probably makes things a little clearer. Use your gross household income for the Household Income column, and then move to the right to see an indication of how much loan you may receive. Remember it is only an indication of what you may receive towards your living costs.

Slide 6
There are some means tested grants available to students with dependants. There is a Childcare Grant which is specifically to help with childcare costs. There is also a Parent’s Learning Allowance and an Adult Dependant Grant. All of these are dependent on your income. You apply on the same application as you apply for your living cost loan and tuition fee loan, so you only put your information in once.

The Disabled Students Allowance can assist with additional course related costs for students with a disability, specific learning difficulty, a mental health condition or a long term medical condition. This isn’t means tested on household income but is based on assessment of your needs. Please contact our Accessibility Team before coming to University if this applies to you. Their contact details can be found on the Student Services area of the University web site.

If you are intending to study Nursing, Midwifery, Physiotherapy or Dietetics there may be additional, limited financial support from the NHS through their Learning Support Funds. This has not yet been confirmed for 2018 entrants, but currently offers an award for students with children; help with travel and dual accommodation costs relating to placements and an exceptional hardship fund where students are struggling financially.

For more information please go to the NHSBSA.nhs.uk web page.

This slide advises information about interest rates and repayments for your student loans. While you are University interest is applied at a rate of the retail price index plus 3%. Once you have left, or graduated from University, then the interest rate varies according to how much you are earning; from the retail price index, to the retail price index plus 3%.

Remember, repayments don’t depend on what you owe, but on what you earn and are taken directly from your salary like tax, national insurance and pension. You only start to make repayments when your income goes above £25,000 (this threshold is likely to increase by inflation year on year) and then you will repay 9% of that salary, above the £25,000. If you don’t earn anything, you won’t make any repayments.

If you are self-employed or you move abroad a different repayment plan will apply and will have to be arranged with the Student Loans Company, but it will still be based on taxable income. All loans go into one pot for repayment purposes, so you only make one payment back to your loans per month.

(This slide shows a table of repayments based on earnings)

This table gives an idea of how much would be deducted from your salary. Basically the more you earn, the more you repay. According to a City AM report in July 2017 the average starting salary of Nottingham graduate was £28,000, meaning you would repay £22.50 per month. Finally, if there is any balance outstanding after 30 years it is written off.

Apply early for your student funding. Applications should open around the end of January, beginning of February. Students from England need to go to the www.gov.uk/studentfinance to apply. Don’t wait until results day to apply. Instead apply using the University and course you want to study – you can always change it later on once you know where you are definitely going. But at least the application will be processed and ensure your funding is in place for when you start your course in September.

And don’t forget you will need to reapply for your funding every year.

Slide 11

That was a summary of the statutory Government support. There is also support available through the University depending on certain circumstances and if you fulfil certain eligibility criteria. The main award we offer is our Core Bursary which is based on the household income assessment carried out by Student Finance, so when completing your funding application make sure you, and your sponsors, tick the box to consent to share the income information with us.

The Core Bursary offers awards of up to £2,000 per year, according to the thresholds as shown on this slide and is paid directly to you, the student in three termly instalments.

Slide 12

As well as the Core Bursary you may also be eligible for the Nottingham Potential Bursary but you must meet one of the criteria listed. You will also have to apply for the Bursary via an online form which will be available just before the start of the academic year.

(For full criteria please go to http://www.nottingham.ac.uk/studentservices/support/financialsupport/bursariesandscholarships/2018guaranteedbursaries.aspx)

As well as Government funding and the bursaries I’ve mentioned there are other competitive bursaries and scholarships available through the University. Please check our website for more information and for how to apply (www.nottingham.ac.uk/financialsupport), during the time between now and when you come to University in September. For some of the awards you do need to apply before you start.

Many of our students manage part time work alongside their studies, and there is a company called Unitemps based in Portland Building, University Park Campus, who can help you find a job that will fit in with your course commitments.

Your family may be able to help you, or you may have been working and have some savings that you can use while you are at University.

The only other thing I would mention here is student bank accounts. Shop around for your student account. High street banks offer different incentives and different overdraft amounts. An interest free overdraft can be useful for cash flow as student finance is paid in termly instalments rather than monthly, which is how most people are paid when working. However, check out repayment terms for any overdraft you do use.
