

You do not need to purchase the books listed and it is not compulsory that you cover all the material listed. Detailed reading lists will be supplied by module lecturers when you start your modules in September.

Suggested Readings:

- In Defence of Welfare 2 reviews the changes to welfare support under the previous Coalition Government (2010-2015) – a free pdf version of the publication is available at <http://www.social-policy.org.uk/what-we-do/publications/in-defence-of-welfare-2/>
- Discover Society is an online journal which cuts across politics, economics, sociology, criminology and social policy. It is written for the non-specialist and offers lots of topical debates and discussions that will be relevant to your studies. It is available at <http://discoversociety.org/>
- The Social Policy Association produces a blog to accompany published articles and is available at <https://socialpolicyblog.com/>
